RATIONALE FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION

I. CHURCH REQUIREMENTS

Since the close of World War II, continuing education has been the fastest growing segment of education. Knowledge is expanding so rapidly that standing still quickly leaves one behind. Lawyers, accountants, dentists, physicians, and nurses must continue their education throughout their professional careers. The SDA Church requires continuing education for all church workers at all levels to maintain competence and efficiency.

II. CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR PUBLISHING LEADERS

A recent study of Seventh-day Adventist publishing leaders has revealed the same need.

Practical continuing education is designed to help our publishing leaders grow ever more effective as they lead and train Literature Evangelists to be successful in all aspects of the Publishing Ministry.

The Church needs well-informed publishing leaders who can cope up with the increasing demands of the changing world business technical know-how in addition to their submission to God's will and acknowledgement of His divine power.

ACADEMY OF PUBLISHING LEADERS

The Academy of Publishing Leaders (APL) is the training school for Publishing Ministries Department leaders. It is more formal, professional, and focussed in its approach, designed to provide basic theoretical knowledge in Publishing and Christian leadership. It covers wide scope of learning, which serves as the base for educated and professional leadership.

I. MECHANICS AND PROCEDURES

A. TRAINING APPROACHES

Since it is more formal and professional in nature, the Academy of Publishing Leaders (APL) has courses required, gives examinations and grades and provides graduation.

B. FREQUENCY AND DURATION

This is recommended to be conducted regularly by the Union LMS once every two years to be scheduled in the year between leadership training seminars conducted every other year. In addition, it may also be conducted in conjunction with the leadership seminar, in which case it becomes annually.
C. RESOURCE PERSONS

The APL is coordinated by the LMS director. Resource persons may include publishing leaders from the Division, Union and Publishing House. Other church leaders with specific expertise will be of great help.

D. FINANCIAL PLANS

Each Union Publishing Ministries Department is advised to develop a financial scheme to carry through this upgrading program. Normally, the following applies:
